Everywhere I went I found myself surrounded by strangers. I became lost in the Green Machine we are so often called. An unknown individual in a complex entity that travels and builds in distant mysterious countries. An entity that pulls me away from loved ones and home and forces me to stand alone in those distant countries.

I rejected this feeling of aloneness because of the assurance of returning home shortly. Although that fact remained, in my eyes the omnipresence of time wore heavy; but I succeeded in throwing off this cloak and dived into time consuming activities. My only hope of not becoming depressed lodged in the drive to fill my time completely, leaving not one second uncovered.

Unable to successfully mask all time and in the necessity to maintain some privacy, I retreated into myself. I sought to escape into music or literature or simply just be alone for a little while. Even though it felt good to be alone my thoughts soon turned to far-away friends and home.

For once I began to think seriously and look at myself as I was. I looked back and saw my present way of life was a whirlwind of motion, of conflicting standards of values and moralities pitted against military obligation. I saw that self-exclusion and non-individuality were self-defeating and by honestly realizing my faults, I was ready to reach out and grasp destiny.

Slowly I began to notice the Battalion was made up of real people doing real things. The man that worked beside me and the man that ordered us, were individuals, as real as I. I found that by giving and taking in everyday life, I could cope with other people on common terms and better understand my military life.

After I came out of my shell I realized I could trust and believe in others as well as myself. I began to feel stronger, more intune to my changing world. By opening my world to the world of NMCB 133 and its men, I learned that dedicated men from all over the United States were helping people in distant countries to achieve their goals.

THE 133 CHRONICLE

From Hawaii to Iwo Jima to Okinawa. Across oceans through jungles and around rice paddies, the Seabees of NMCB 133 have built a History of Tradition and achievement and stand solidly upon a foundation of pride, courage and the "Can Do" Spirit.

Naval Construction Battalion ONE THIRTY THREE was commissioned September 17, 1943 at Camp Perry, Williamsburg, Virginia. Following seven months of rigorous training at Davisville, Rhode Island; Gulfport, Miss; and Port Hueneme, California; the Battalion became ready for action.

NCB ONE THIRTY THREE picked up the unusual nickname "Kangaroo" because of the rhyme with "Can Do" and the fact that Australia was to be the first deployment site. The name stayed but Hawaii became the first deployment site, on May 9, 1944. The Battalion arrived at Naval Air Station, Honolulu and began projects which included raising the level of the airfield, building seaplane docks, erecting fuel tanks, and constructing numerous other facilities. With the construction talents of ONE THIRTY THREE, the airfield was to become the largest and busiest in the Pacific Theater.

Nine months later, on 19 February 1945, the invasion of IWO JIMA began. ONE THIRTY THREE accompanied the invasion force, with the Bees forming shore parties and maintaining supply lines for the Marines. On D-Day Plus One, the Seabees began the work of clearing debris off the beach to maintain vital supply lines, evacuated wounded personnel, and provided up-to-date information and maps as well as security for the beaches. For 26 days the Kangroos lived under intense combat conditions and learned by bitter experience about mines and booby traps and the sounds of battle. When the island was finally declared secure on March 16, 1945, work had already begun on the Battalion Camp. Details of men were erecting tents, constructing a galley, putting up a water plant, installing generators and building the facilities necessary to run a camp.

Although, NCB ONE THIRTY THREE helped keep supply lines open and provide security, the Battalion had a higher priority job to do. On D-Day Plus 7 the Battalion received orders to get the first captured Japanese airfield in shape to receive land based fighters and transport planes. At that time the field was still under enemy mortar and artillery fire. A few days later the order came through to start work on Airfield No. 2. Airfield No. 2 was only partially secured. By D-Day plus 13, plans were made for the extension of Airfield No. 2 ... these plans were to produce eventually the longest airstrip in the Western Pacific at the time.

In the five months the Kangaroo Battalion spent on Iwo Jima, the "Can Do" men had moved more than 1,000,000 cubic yards of earth and produced more than 100,000 tons of crushed rock. The Battalion had sustained more casualties in it's participation in the invasion of Iwo Jima than any other construction battalion in WWII. Because of ONE THIRTY THREE's role in the invasion of Iwo Jima, the Battalion received the Navy Unit Commendation.

As the war steadily drew to an end and many of the battalion's projects were completed, enlisted Seabees who had been with ONE THIRTY THREE since commissioning were being replaced by new men.

With the end of hostilities and the surrender of Japan's Armed Forces, the great demobilization of American Military Forces began. In December, 1945, Naval Construction Battalion ONE THIRTY THREE was deactivated from Military service.

It was not until 1966 that the services of the Battalion were again required. On 12 August at the Construction Battalion Center, Gulfport, Mississippi, Naval Mobile Construction Battalion ONE THIRTY THREE was recommissioned.

After six months of training and regrowth to battalion size, the Kangroo Battalion embarked February, 1967, on a tour to DaNang, Vietnam. ONE THIRTY THREE completed many projects during the 1967 tour but the major projects were building a second increment for a Prisoner of War Camp, an interrogation center, an ARVN VNAF ammo dump and a rock staging area at Observation Point. The accomplishments sired by the "Can Do" spirit of the Kangroo Battalion gained the recognition of the Navy and a Second Navy Unit Commendation.

Phu Bai, Vietnam was the deployment site in 1968. Here the men of the Battalion completed the monumental task of overlaying the Hue-Phu Bai airstrip with 18,000 individual sheets of matting. The project was accomplished in less than fifty-one hours while still permitting the field to be used. ONE THIRTY THREE was again deployed to Vietnam in 1969. While deployed to Camp Wilkerson, six miles south of Hue, the Kangroos reconstructed the 268 foot center span of the Hue Bridge, reworked approximately seventy miles of paved highway, extended 95 culverts and repaired dozens of bridges.

Beginning with an assignment to Guam in June of 1970 NMCB ONE THIRTY THREE started the "Deployment of Firsts". During the Guam deployment the men of Kangroo spread from Bein Hoa in Vietnam to the Azores and Aleution Island Chains at Alaska. The men were spread so far and wide that a popular phrase "The Sun Never Sets on 133" became widely known.

From Guam to Okinawa read the deployment list in 1972 for ONE THIRTY THREE. The Kangroo Battalion was again scattered all over the Pacific. The five details were assigned to Kien Hoa Province, Republic of Vietnam; Meon, Truk Islands; MCAS, Iwakuni, Japan; Oahu, Hawaii; Subic Bay, Philippines and the Main Body was stationed at Camp Shields, Okinawa.

Again in 1973, NMCB ONE THIRTY THREE enjoyed a first with a deployment to Europe. With the Main Body assigned to Rota, Spain, the arms of Kangroo spread over most of Europe to the Indian Ocean and on into the Pacific. The Details were assigned to such places as Todendorf, Germany;

Naples, Italy; La Maddalena, Sardina; Sigonella, Sicily; Nea Makri, Greece; Souda Bay, Crete; Diego Garcia and the Seabee Team 13310 on Kusaie Island, Ponape, East Caroline Islands.

The assignment to Camp Shields, Okinawa on February 5, 1974, ended the Kangaroo Battalion's "Deployment of Firsts". This second deployment to Okinawa saw the Main Body involved in a variety of major projects. These projects included a fence and security road at ASP-2; Recreational Beach Facilities at Camp Schwab; a staff NCO Club at Camp McTureous, and an EM Club at Camp Shields. Other personnel at Camp Shields supported the details, the Okinawan job sites, and effected camp maintenance.

The details during this Okinawan deployment went to four places; Misawa, Japan; Iwakuni, Japan; Taipei, Taiwan; and Subic Bay, Philippines. The Misawa detail poured and installed pads and arresting gear; Detail Iwakuni completed the work on four modular BEQ's, worked on a confinement facility, and began initial planning on a processing warehouse; Detail Taiwan completed a squash court and undertook a handball court, work was also done on a tennis court at MAAG, Taiwan. Detail Philippines completed a boundary road around Subic Bay, worked on a Runway Support Facility, completed the Reservoir Repair Project, rehabbed three BEQ's, and worked on the Aircraft Hanger Project.

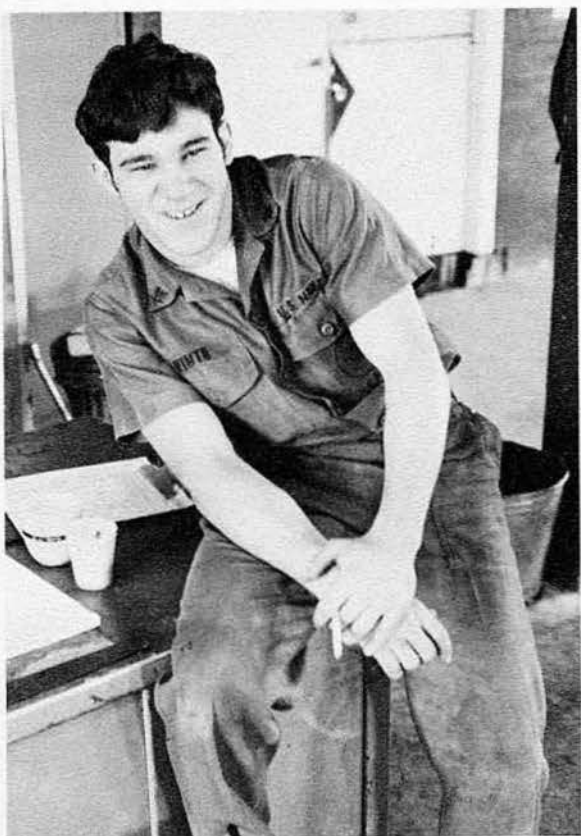

The Seabee Team (13311) was deployed to Palau, West Caroline Islands. This civic action group worked on completing a 40 x 100 foot Pascoe Building for the Palau High School Agricultural Department, putting in a generator and erecting an equipment building for Ngeremglui Ice Plant, installing rest room facilities in the Palau Air Terminal constructing a 150 car parking lot there, and began initial work on the Ngerikiil Bridge and grade work on the Airar Road.

These projects and the projects done in the past have helped make this world a better place to live. So, whether NMCB ONE THIRTY THREE is on Hawaii, Iwo Jima or Okinawa everything that is done becomes chronicles in the Tradition of the Kangaroo Battalion.

CIVIL ENGINEER CORPS, U.S. NAVY
COMMANDING OFFICER

On the occasion of publishing the cruisebook it is appropriate to record the great accomplishments of the Kangaroo Battalion during the Okinawa deployment from February through September of 1974. Especially, for this brief interlude in the battalion's shining history, we must reflect on the tragic loss of the battalion's Commanding Officer, CDR Leland R. Dobler and the Officer-in-Charge of the Philippine Detail, LT Charles H. Jeffries. The beginning of the deployment was one of digging into the challenging tasks assigned. Battalion effort came quickly up the power curve under the positive direction of these fine officers along with CDR Michael D. Muir, the Executive Officer, and the other outstanding officers and men set forth in these pages.

Upon assumption of Command on 8 June 1974 as your new Commanding Officer, I found I had inherited a spirited, first class battalion of the highest standards. The Kangaroo Battalion, during the Okinawa Deployment, was composed of officers and men with the highest degree of professionalism, spirit and drive. Families and relatives supporting these men at homeport and elsewhere can take pride in the overseas accomplishments of NMCB 133.

These pages will set forth these accomplishments. They will also serve as a permanent record for those men who were on the deployment and their families and relatives supporting them from the home front. Further, this book will give a measure of the flavor and character of an overseas Seabee shore deployment. I hope this publication will preserve pleasant memories for each man as he thinks back on his time with the Navy Seabees.

CDR Michael D. Muir graduated from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute in 1959 with a Bachelors Degree in Mechanical Engineering. He attended Postgraduate School in Monterey, California where he earned a Masters Degree in Management in 1971. He is also a registered Professional Engineer in the state of Illinois.

His previous assignments include Staff Civil Engineer, Naval Base Training, Pensacola, Florida; Midwest Division Naval Facilities Engineering Command Great Lakes, Illinois; Officer in Charge of Construction, Republic of Vietnam; Marine Air Station, Kaneohe, Hawaii; Naval Air Facilities, Monterey California; Naval Air Test Center, Patuxent River, Maryland; Naval Ordnance Laboratory, White Oak, Maryland; and NMCB 133, Gulfport, Miss.

CDR Muir reported as Executive Officer of NMCB 133 in March 1972 and changed command with LCDR MacCall in April of 1974.

CDR Muir is married to the former Mary Alice McWilliams of Clements, Maryland. They have one daughter, Jacqueline 11, and two sons, Timothy 10 and Christopher 5.

LCDR BRUCE L. MacCALL
EXECUTIVE OFFICER

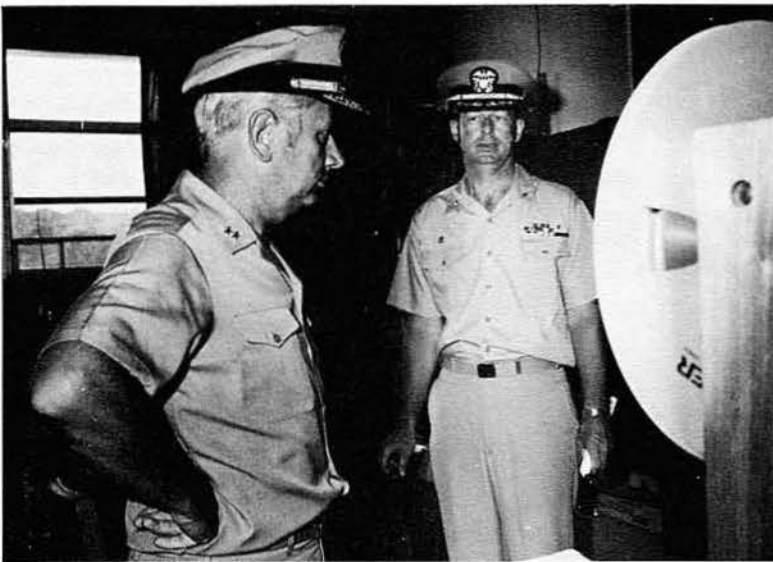

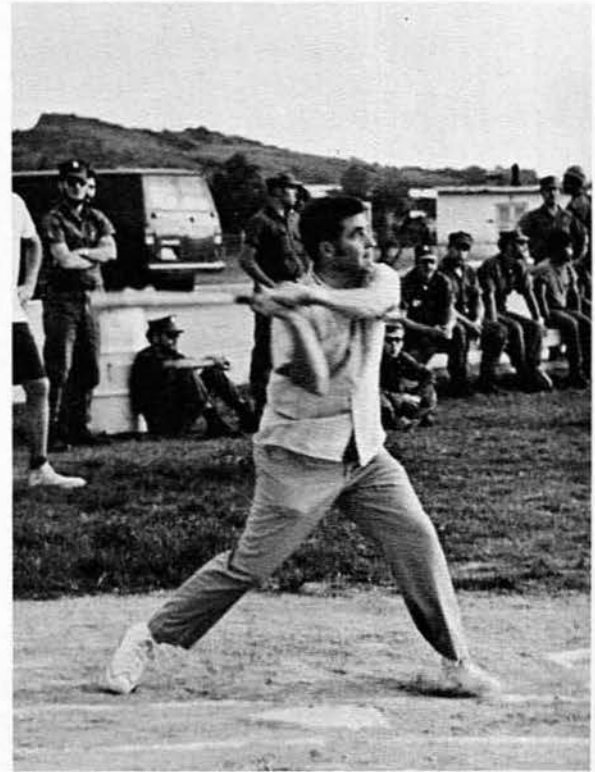

Our Okinawa Deployment has been a very rewarding experience for us all. I joined the Battalion early in the deployment and as we all know we lost three outstanding leaders. This tragedy indeed shocked us all, however, the strength and determination of our Battalion was really proven in the following months realizing the job that was ahead of us. Our completion of many of the projects assigned to us is attributed to only one fact and that is you, the men of NMCB 133. Even though we were faced with some hardships and frustrations, we proved our worth and I know we are better men overall.

My congratulations and best wishes are extended to the officers and men and their families who will be departing after the completion of our Okinawa Deployment. You have left your mark on NMCB 133 and I hope you are proud of the contributions you have made.

I say this to all Kangroos "WELL DONE".
