Scope and Content Notes

The Naval Forces Vietnam command had its origins in the Navy Section of the Military Assistance Advisory Group, Indochina, which was established in 1950 to provide supplies and equipment to the French. In 1955 after the French defeat in Indochina the Navy Section became part of the Military Assistance Advisory Group, Vietnam. In part, this name change reflected the fact that the United States now sent aid directly to the Vietnamese rather than to the French. At this time, U.S. personnel also assumed an advisory role whereas during the French era they had primarily supplied material. On 15 May 1964 the Navy Section became the Naval Advisory Group when the Military Assistance Advisory Group was merged into the Military Assistance Command, Vietnam.

Until March 1965 and the beginning of direct U.S. participation in the Vietnam war the Navy served in an advisory capacity. With the deployment of the U.S. Navy combat units to Vietnam in the spring of 1965, the Naval Advisory Group additionally took on operational responsibilities. On 1 April 1966 the two roles were separated with the establishment of Naval Forces Vietnam (NAVFORV). The Naval Advisory Group continued its advisory role as a subordinate command under COMNAVFORV.

The records described in this checklist were collected at the naval headquarters in Saigon by naval officers who acted as historians and were assigned to the staff. Many of the records were used to prepare a monthly Historical Summary of naval activities in Vietnam. As these records were no longer needed in Saigon they were shipped to the Operational Archives Branch (now Archives Section) of the Naval History Division (now Naval History and Heritage Command).

In most cases, the original organization of the records in Saigon was lost during the transshipment process. The Archives Branch originally filed the records in the order in which they arrived. Once U.S. involvement in the war terminated in 1973 it became clear that a more useable arrangement of the records was necessary. In attempting to restore the records to their original arrangement, they first were divided into those of Chief, Naval Advisory Group and Commander, Naval Forces Vietnam. For the most part the records of the latter organization contain documentation on U.S. Naval operations. However, the Naval Advisory Group also served in an operational role between March 1965 and 1 April 1966 when NAVFORV was created. The roles again began to overlap after 1969 with the beginning of the Vietnamization program

The NAVFORV and Naval Advisory Group records fall into several main series. Two of these are the subject and serial files of the immediate office of the Commander. A second category, which makes up approximately half the bulk of the records, is messages. These messages have been further broken down by subject (i.e., Coastal Patrol, river Patrol, Intelligence, etc.). In many cases the historians in Saigon made detailed listings of the messages and these are filed as appendices to this inventory. In a third category are the divisional records of particular offices (i.e., Assistant Chief of Staff for Plans, Assistant chief of Staff for Operations). Miscellaneous materials that could not be associated with any one office on the commander's staff also are indicated.

Several groups of records have been filed separately. Some items, notably operation plans, have been placed with other similar records already held by the Archives Branch.

Vietnam.

Codename for U.S. Air Force B-52 strikes in South

BARRIER REEF

A SEALORDs campaign which extended from Tuyen

Nhon on the Vam Co Tay River westward along the La Grange, Ong Lon and Dong Tien Canals to An Long on the Upper Mekong and Bassac Rivers. This patrol line filled the gap between the Giant Slingshot and Tran Hung Dao campaign areas.

BLUE SHARK Established in May 1970, it was a joint U. S.--Vietnamese operation which was successor to the Market Time Raider campaign.

BREEZY COVE Part of the SEALORDS campaign inland from Song Ong Doc.

CLEARWATER Activated in February 1968, this force patrolled the inland waterways of I Corps particularly the Cua Viet and Perfume Rivers.

DUFFLE BAG Codename for the U.S. Navy sensor program.

GAME WARDEN Composed of River Patrol Boats, minesweeper helicopters, and SEALs, this force, Task Force 116, the River Patrol Force interdicted Viet Cong movements on the major waterways of the Mekong Delta and the Rung Sat Special Zone.

GIANT SLINGSHOT The largest of the SEALORDS barrier campaigns, Task Group 194.9 operated on the Vam Co Dong and the Vam Co Tay Rivers along with Vietnamese in a campaign to cut enemy I infiltration from the Parrots Beak area of Cambodia into the western approaches to Saigon.

KEYSTONE Codeword for withdrawal of Marines from Vietnam.

MARKET TIME Composed of Swift boats and Coast Guard Cutters, this force, Task Force 115 the Coastal Surveillance Force patrolled the coastal waters of South Vietnam to interdict Viet Cong infiltration of men and supplies.

MARKET TIME RAIDERS As part of the SEALORDS campaign, Swift boats ran up the River, near the coast in IV Corps area of South Vietnam.

READY DECK Part of the SEALORDS campaign on the upper Saigon River from Phu Cuong upstream to Tri Tam and on the Tri Tam River.

MOBILE RIVERINE FORCE The Navy portion of the Mobile Riverine Force; River Assault Flotilla 1, Task Force 117.

RIVERINE STRIKE GROUP After the disestablishment of the Mobile Riverine Force in August 1969, remnants of the Force consisting of River Assault Divisions 13 and 15 continued to operate as the Riverine Strike Group in Operation SEALORDS.

SEA FLOAT/SOLID ANCHOR An attempt by U.S. Navy forces to reestablish South Vietnamese control in the long time-communist stronghold around Nam Can in the Mekong Delta.

SEALORDS This operation, Task Force 194 employed elements of the Coastal Surveillance, River Patrol, and Mobile Riverine Forces in conjunction with other U.S. and Vietnamese forces to interdict infiltration routes from Cambodia into the Mekong Delta, pacify trans-delta inland waterways, and harass the enemy base areas. The various SEALORDS campaigns include Giant Slingshot, Barrier Reef, Tran Hung Dao, Search Turn, and Market Time Raiders.

SEARCH TURN A SEALORDS campaign northwest of Rach Gia to Long Xuyen along the Gai Lon River, the Rach Gia Long Xuyen, Ba The, and Triton Canals and various adjoining waterways.

STABLE DOOR Part of the Market Time operation, this force defended the harbors of South Vietnam.

TRAN HUNG DAO A U.S. Navy and Vietnamese Navy campaign, part of the SEALORDS operation, from Ha Tien on the Vietnamese coast eastward along the Cambodian border to the Mekong River. Later the name for Vietnamese naval operations in the Mekong Delta.
