NARRATIVE

USS DUBUQUE (LPD 8) began 2000 at Pier 9 of Naval Station San Diego, with the crew enjoying the holiday leave period until the 10th of January. Then, it was back to work and the familiar sights of contractor work. DUBUQUE would remain in the midst of the Depot-Level Planned Maintenance Availability until the 6th of February. It was an especially intense period of time for all the crew as DUBUQUE was undergoing a $22 million five-month overhaul.

The 7th of February was a much-anticipated day as the crew was able to move out of their temporary housing at the Naval Training Center barracks and move back aboard ship. In preparation, the Supply Department went to great lengths to ensure that the new galley, despite all the work that was going on on the ship, was able to pass the Board of Health's sanitary inspection before the first meal was served.

DUBUQUE remained at Pier 9 until the 26th of March as contractor work continued throughout the ship. RADM Smith, COMPHIBGRU THREE paid the ship a visit during the extensive overhaul. He wanted to see what the material condition of DUBUQUE and assess the progress of various jobs throughout the ship.

DUBUQUE was ready for Light-Off Assessment (LOA) on March 15th. After months of diligent training, the crew displayed extraordinary skill at combating Main Space Fires and passed Light-Off Assessment with flying colors. In fact, DUBUQUE did so well that the Afloat Training Group senior member said, "This was the best LOA this Senior Assessor has seen in 39 months of assessing PACFLT units."

In order to accustom the crew to an underway routine, the ship held an overnight fast cruise on the 20th of March. From the 28th of March until the 30th of March, DUBUQUE was underway for Sea Trials. The ship held up to the strain and performed well throughout a variety of tests, earning a passing mark for Sea Trials.

Following a ship's picnic at Admiral Baker Field, DUBUQUE needed to fill up her tanks and also onload essential ammunition. On the 12th of April, she travelled down the waterfront to La Playa Fuel Pier to take on a full load of fuel. She returned to the Naval Station that night and made the trip back down the waterfront the next morning. Only this time, she went to Bravo Pier to load ammunition and again returned to the Naval Station at night.

ENCLOSURE (3)

On the week of April 17th, DUBUQUE began her Command Assessment Readiness and Training (CART) II inspection. It was a long week for all the crew, but they persevered and received outstanding marks. This led Naval Beach Group and Afloat Training Group inspectors to declare that DUBUQUE was one of the best-prepared ships that they have ever seen during CART II inspections.

From May 9th until May 18th, DUBUQUE conducted Tailored Ships Training Availability (TSTA) A. It was a long couple of weeks as each department honed their skills and prepared for the later stages of the Basic Training Cycle. At the conclusion of TSTA A, DUBUQUE pulled into Broadway Pier in downtown, San Diego for ship tours. Over the course of the weekend, over 4,000 visitors were given guided tours of the ship.

DUBUQUE continued with TSTA B on June 19th. For the next two weeks, the crew would again be working to sharpen their skills and improve their battle efficiency. While they were in the midst of all of this work, DUBUQUE embarked the San Diego Young Marines for a week-long training cruise. As part of this mentorship program, at-risk youths with the hope to one day be Marines were integrated into the ship's routine. In addition, DUBUQUE was the host ship for SURFPAC's Leaders at Sea Program. Approximately 10 community leaders were flown onto the ship in the morning and given an extensive tour, lunch, and personal time with the Captain. At the end of the day, they were flown home to share their experiences with family, friends, and people in their communities.

The Prospective Executive Officer, LCDR Robert D. Sallade, checked aboard on July 19th. Over the course of a week, he conducted a thorough turnover with the outgoing Executive Officer. By the 26th of July, he had assumed the reins of Executive Officer and bid farewell to LCDR James C. Hamblet.

DUBUQUE's Final Evaluation Phase began on July 28th. Over the course of two days, DUBUQUE passed this comprehensive completion to the Basic Training Phase and then proceeded to Seattle for the Seattle Sea Fair.

DUBUQUE first pulled into Everett, Washington to embark hundreds of riders for the trip into Seattle. DUBUQUE followed in procession along with all other ships during the Seattle Sea Fair Parade of Ships. Following the Parade of Ships, it was liberty time for the crew. After four days in Seattle, DUBUQUE prepared to leave Seattle and commence a Tiger Cruise back to San Diego.

Throughout the four-day Tiger Cruise, the Tigers were able to learn all about the Navy. There were daily activities held for them, along with tours, special meals with the Captain, Officers, and crew.

Following three weeks in port, DUBUQUE was back out to sea for Amphibious Specialty Training (AST). On August 28th, while transiting San Diego Harbor to begin AST, DUBUQUE experienced a loss of steering casualty. With the bow of the ship heading rapidly to shore and shoal water, the crew was forced to put all their training to work to prevent disaster. The entire crew pulled together to stop the ship before steering into shoal water and bring DUBUQUE back into the channel.

For the next two weeks, Deck Department worked with Operations Department to launch and recover Amphibious Assault Vehicles (AAVs), Landing Craft Utility (LCU), and Landing Craft Air Cushion (LCAC). Thorough planning and coordination resulted in DUBUQUE being able to meet every H-hour and recover all boat waves on time.

The next big hurdle for DUBUQUE was Underway Demonstration. On September 21st, in a remarkable testament to the quality of the Engineering Department, DUBUQUE completed Underway Demonstration in only one day. DUBUQUE conducted a passenger transfer off the coast of San Diego in which all the inspectors came aboard. For the next several hours, the engineers ran through numerous drills, impressing the inspectors with their skill at combating all sorts of casualties. By nightfall, the verdict was in, DUBUQUE's Engineering Department was fully-prepared to handle any and all casualties. With that information, Captain Hejl directed the ship back to port. DUBUQUE pulled in that night, affording the crew a good night's sleep at home and a day off for all their hard work.

Following Underway Demonstration, DUBUQUE rewarded her sailors with a port visit in Vancouver, Canada. Enroute to Vancouver, DUBUQUE conducted a Burial at Sea for eight former service members. From the 7th of October until the 10th of October, DUBUQUE Sailors were able to enjoy the beauty of autumn in Canada.

Following her return to San Diego, DUBUQUE conducted Type Training in the local SOCAL OPAREA. On October 20th, while returning to port for the weekend, DUBUQUE participated in the San Diego Fleet Week Parade of Ships. Travelling in formation with over a dozen warships from the United States, France, and Canada, DUBUQUE quietly impressed thousands of spectators as she transited San Diego Harbor.

In early November, DUBUQUE conducted another week of Type Training. With Veterans Day and Thanksgiving Day ahead, DUBUQUE remained in port for a few weeks to allow her Sailors to relax with friends and family.

By the end of November, she would be underway again, this time for Ammunition Onload.

On November 27th, DUBUQUE proceeded north to Seal Beach Naval Weapons Station, Seal Beach California to onload a variety of ammunition her Marines will need on WESTPAC. The onload began several hours late due to dense fog in the channel. However, despite the setback, DUBUQUE safely loaded and stored ammunition in a record time of two days. The crew enjoyed the liberty in Seal Beach, but was happy to return to San Diego for the weekend.

DUBUQUE's Christmas Party was held at the Mission Valley Marriot on December 8th. Great food, combined with thousands of dollars in door prizes, ensured that everyone had a good time. A comedian entertained guests during dinner; a DJ kept the dancing lively and the dance floor packed.

The final underway period of the year lasted from the 11th to the 14th of December. After conducting Type Training for three days, DUBUQUE returned to port on the morning of the 14th. She remained pierside only long enough to embark over 200 students from La Mesa Dale Elementary school and several dozen family members for a Community Relations/Family Day Cruise off the coast of San Diego. After an afternoon at sea, DUBUQUE returned to the Naval Station and began holiday leave.
